Call for Nominations of Participants: 12th N-ECCO School

At the 16th Congress of ECCO in Copenhagen, on July 7, 2021, the N-ECCO Committee will host the educational activity for IBD Nurses, N-ECCO School, for the 12th time. ECCO intends to give nurses, who might still be in training and have an interest in IBD, the possibility to attend an IBD-focused course. The ultimate aim of this programme is to improve nurse education throughout Europe.

We are pleased to confirm that in 2021 we are once again welcoming dietitians to participate at the N-ECCO School, as the involvement of dietitians in the treatment of patients is an important part. We also would like to provide delegates from outside of Europe with the possibility to attend this course focusing on the basic aspects of IBD.

Nomination process for IBD Nurse candidates from ECCO Country Members:

The call for nomination of participants will be sent out to all N-ECCO National Representatives in September 2020.

Interested candidates are encouraged to apply for nomination via the N-ECCO National Representative of their country. In order to get their contacts, please get in touch with the ECCO Office.

A maximum of 72 places is reserved for the participation of IBD Nurses. N-ECCO National Representatives are welcome to send in multiple nominations, which need to be ranked according to priority.

In case there is no N-ECCO National Representative in your country, please do not hesitate to contact Ana Ibarra from the N-ECCO Committee (<mailto:a.ibarra@nhs.net>).

Application process for IBD Nurse candidates from outside of Europe:

As in previous years N-ECCO is delighted to announce that a maximum of 10 course places will be reserved for IBD Nurses from outside of Europe. Candidates who are interested should contact the ECCO Office (ecco21@ecco-ibd.eu) well in advance.

Application process for dietitians:
