

UR-CARE

United Registries for Clinical Assessment and Research

Sponsorship Prospectus

Dear Corporate Members,

IBDiM would like to invite you to support the IBD database – UR-CARE.

Recognizing the potential benefits for patient care, mobility, and research, ECCO initiated United Registries for Clinical Assessment and Research (UR-CARE) — a digital registry resulting from the collective efforts and experts of European IBD. UR-CARE serves both daily clinical care and research studies, providing a unified platform for cross-national research and enhancing patient care quality.

While on the national level, a few very successful registries might already offer such a combined function, the international IBD community has been very much anticipating such a comprehensive tool on the European level, which:

- Helps healthcare professionals in IBD to collect aspects of IBD daily clinical care with a user-friendly solution.
- Allows researchers to build on a validated tool, to reduce the work- duplication in data entry, to use a joint CRF (Case Report Form) format and to benefit from a comparable data format for retrospective studies
- Facilitates collaborative research

Since its establishment, UR-CARE continues to be at the forefront of advancing IBD research and improving patient care through collaboration and innovation. IBDiM (IBD in Motion GmbH), the research unit of ECCO, addresses the issues mentioned above by offering a solid foundation for profound daily care and cross-national research. IBDiM also facilitates UR-CARE, combining scientific expertise and clinical research consultancy to advance European IBD research projects in cooperation with partner institutions.

This visionary project offers a solid basis for cross-national as well as improvement for quality of care in patients and merits your dedicated interest and focus. It is thoroughly prepared, transparent and embedded in the academic framework of ECCO – with a primary focus on users and patients. The commitment to diligence and scientific integrity are distinctive benchmark characteristics of this project.

We welcome the industry partners to support the UR-CARE database.
